Dear All

An email received from the Council Chief Executive this morning:

Dear Councillor

You may have seen some media coverage this morning that suggests that some PPP1 schools could be closed until the summer.

Yesterday evening the Council received early indications that suggest evidence of faults across all schools. At the moment it is too early to say what the impact will be as full survey results have not been yet been received. Some faults could be easy to fix and may not present a major problem while others could be longer term. What is certain is that we won't take risks with the safety of our schools children and schools won't reopen until Edinburgh Schools Partnership can assure us of their safety. As part of the contract, Edinburgh Schools Partnership own, maintain and assure the safety of the PPP1 buildings.

It is our intention to publish further information on individual school surveys when these are formally received and of course provide a full update to parents on their individual schools and the remediation works required. I will ensure you continue to receive regular updates.

Andrew Kerr
Chief Executive

Jason
